

ENTERTAINMENT > THEATRE > MUSIC

RICHARD LAUTENS/TORONTO STAR

Daniel MacIvor shares a moment last night with his protégés, Medina Hahn, middle, and Daniel Arnold.

MacIvor shares theatre prize with protégé pair

MacIVOR from L1

Last year, the Arts Club Theatre in Vancouver presented the premiere of his most recent full-length script, His Greatness, inspired by the final days of Tennessee Williams.

The Siminovitch Prize is divided in two; $75,000 goes to the lead artist and $25,000 to people the artist chooses to share in the award.

MacIvor has selected as his protégé co-winners Daniel Arnold and Medina Hahn, two writer-performers he met last year in Vancouver and whose play Any Night was presented at Summerworks this past year. "They work collaboratively," MacIvor said, "which is very dear to my heart."